To Announce Candidates For Queen Of Carnival At 'B' Dance Tomorrow

Candidates for queen of the all-school carnival, to be held in the gym on March 14 and 15, will be announced tomorrow evening at the "B" Club dance. The queen will rule over the carnival and will take part in a program during the festivities.

The queen will be elected by purchase of general admission tickets at 10 cents—each ticket carrying one vote.

Sororities Choose Candidates

The candidates have been chosen by their respective sororities and by an independent committee composed of Jim Brown, Peg Mercer, and Tom Clark.

Sponsored by the junior class, the carnival is intended to take the place of the all-school circus that was held last year. Various entertainments will be held, including concessions, games of skill, and other types of amusement found at carnivals.

Pfeiffer Is Chairman

To occupy the whole gym building, including the main gym, social hall, and women's gym, the carnival is being planned under the direction of Jack Pfeiffer, general chairman.

Lee Baker and Dick Bodtke compose the publicity committee; Jean Jacob, Dorothy Janssen, Harlan Berger will work on decorations. Composing the amusement committee are Dick Gable, Anne Heidemann, Fred Folks.

Name Other Committees

Bob Smith, Oren Lane, and Earl Morrisson will work on finances. Marian Tendick and Mary Louise Walzer compose the time and place committee.

Bill Armstrong and Carl Ohl are in charge of tickets.

New Courses In Engineering Are Initiated

Engineering courses approved by the Federal government began on Monday, February 3, and will continue until June 10.

Defense courses taught by Dr. Mundel are Personal Administration, Industrial Management and Factory Layout, and Motion and Time Study. Professor Wharry and Mr. Schlegel are taking classes in Engineering, Drawing and Shop Mathematics.

One hundred sixty students are now enrolled in these defense courses.

Mexico Is Subject At Social Science Club

Mexico was the subject of the Pi Gamma Mu meeting held at 6:30 yesterday evening at the Y. W. C. A.

Ted Seamans, who visited Mexico in December, spoke on the subject "Auto De Fe."

Following his talk he presented a table display of various Mexican articles which he has collected. Among the items was a sample of Aztec picture writing.

High School Seniors To Compete For Scholarship

Competitive scholarship examinations for high school seniors will be given Saturday, February 15, at Bradley hall, from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Students who rank in the upper quarter of their high school class are eligible to compete for from 16 to 20 scholarships in amount from $150 to $200.

The examination will consist of three parts: First, a brief autobiographical statement; second, a psychological examination, and third, personal interviews with members of the Bradley faculty.

Frosh-Soph Cotillion February 21

The freshman-sophomore classes will play hosts to the school Friday, February 21, when Jim Rindfuss' "Thirteen Men and a Girl" will swing out for the freshman-sophomore cotillion.

Co-chairmen Kenny McMullen and Chuck Hogan have appointed committees who are working to put on a dance that will be an occasion not to miss. The all-school affair, which is an informal swingfest, will be held in the Bradley gym under decorations that will give an effect of a moonlight night in April.

Committee chairmen and their workers will be announced in next week's TECH.

Although the coming event is a few weeks away the committees are planning an evening of frolic and fun for the guests of the freshmen-sophomore classes at the cotillion of the year.

'B' Club Men To Dance To Bogue Tomorrow At Ing

Tomorrow night "B" Club men, their dates and friends will be dancing to the music of Verle Bogue and his "music in Vogue" at the annual "B" Club dance to be held at the Inglaterra.

Highlight of the evening will be the announcement of the "B" Club Queen who will be elected by the "B" Club members, on the basis of sportsmanship, personality, friendliness, beauty, campus popularity, and for her loyalty in supporting varsity teams.

Schindler Is Chairman

Helping Harry Schindler, general chairman of the affair, will be Roger Sutton, ticket chairman; Jim Law, decorations; Art Szold, publicity chairman; Jack Digman, favors; and Oren Lane and Deane Richardson, who are in charge of the election of the queen.

According to Harry Schindler, the "B" Club dance promises to be one of the most unique, and different dances of the season. Favors for each couple, the out-of-the-usual dress of the orchestra, and the decorations, will all help to make this dance one of the best the "B" Club has ever held.

Ducats $1 A Couple

Tickets may be secured from Roger Sutton or any "B" Club member for $1.00 per couple. Dancing will continue from 9 until 1.

Rabbi Pastor To Talk Tuesday At 'Y' Meeting

Barbara Blair, chairman for the Y. W. C. A. all-association meeting next Tuesday night at 7:30 in social hall, announced that the speaker for the evening will be Rabbi Pastor. He will speak on "Applied Religion."

All members of interest groups should plan to attend the meeting because important announcements and changes are to be made concerning the groups and their time of meeting. Also announcements will be made about the Heart-Sister luncheon. Refreshments will be served, and all planning to attend should sign on the main bulletin board by 4 o'clock Monday.

Seniors Asked To Check Hours

Seniors are asked to report to the registrar's office at their earliest possible convenience and check over their records to see that all requirements are met for their graduation in June.

A number of cases have been found whereby one hour has been short, or all general requirements have not been met.

Alpha Delta To Meet

Recently elected members of Alpha Delta, honorary journalistic fraternity, will meet next Monday afternoon at 3:00 in the TECH room. A short business meeting has been planned.

'Yipe! Peace! It's Wonderful!' Cries One Exam-Exhausted Co-ed

By Willis Ann Weatherholt

Friday afternoon—the end of an endless week! All those horrid little Blue Books are filled with words, right or wrong, and I am on my way to the Wig to relax and clear my overloaded mind of the extraneous knowledge crammed into it.

Walking across the campus in the sunlight puts me in a most philanthropic mood. By the time I reach the Wigwam, speaking matter-of-factly, I have become a radiant little sunbeam, anxious to brighten any corner in which I happen to land. Entering gaily, I hail anyone who appears to be at least semi-conscious, which excludes almost everybody. I part with my nickel for a coke and drop down gratefully into an empty chair. Oh, the blessed peace of a mind utterly vacant!

Then, with insidious suddenness, small, nagging thoughts begin to creep in stealthily. This is the great danger to those alone and too mentally fatigued to resist a thought invasion. Here they come, a vast army of them! My weak defenses topple like paper walls in an earthquake, and the enemy, hurling questions, doubts, and accusations, swarms over the hills and valleys of my brain.

"Those irregular French verbs were your downfall, my girl. You got 'em all mixed up on that exam—savoir, savant, su; aller, allant, alle; avoir, ayant—Oh, what's the use. It's too late now! Was it Darius or Mardonius who led the first Persian invasion? Or could it have been Artophernes? Who did you put on your paper, anyway?

Now, Biology—is it the frog that has two stomachs, or is that the cow? Is man a vertebrate animal—what does vertebrate mean, by the way? The solar system is composed of the sun, moon, earth and eight or nine other things—what are they? You don't know, do you? You know you don't know!

Who was it who idealized childhood in his poetry? You put Wordsworth, but it probably wasn't right. That's a small matter, however, compared to the Principles of Education. Your ideas of educational principles probably didn't agree with those of the author. Why didn't you take his word for it? There are other things, too—the Kinetic Theory of Motion, the obliquity of the ecliptic, Wordworth's style (did he have one or didn't he?), the digestive system of a Paramecium, the causes and outcomes of the Peloponnesian War, the—"

"Yes, yes," I cry in terrorized surrender,—"I flunked in everything. Oh course I did. Now, in heaven's name, go away and leave me in peace. I am a victim of Exam Exhaustion. I think I'll go home and take an overdose of sleeping powder. And, why not?"

Congratulations

The editors wish to take this time to congratulate the social science department not only on their acquisition of the new table but also their plans for an eventual seminar room.

Informal discussion in a small group can be an invaluable aid both towards learning itself and towards a clarification and arousal of interest in the course.

Personal and careful guidance of student study and the ease of expression which grows from seminar-type classes should be requisites and results for every educational system.

Perhaps, as Bradley grows, this type of education will become an integral part of it. Congrats, then, to the social science department for their attempt at a beginning. —DB

A Suggestion

This editorial is not intended to criticize the present program at Bradley. It is meant to be only a suggestion for an improvement, in our opinion—the advocation of a system whereby students would be made to feel more responsibility, to have more incentive to work for knowledge's sake instead of a grade's sake, to have more interest in their own records of progress and less in those of classmates, and to have more free time to use for actual study.

The plan as we have outlined it would entail two years of college under the present system—compulsory class attendance, compulsory chapel attendance, and the grading system. The freshman and sophomore years then would furnish a stable background for the student fresh out of high school. They would be more or less of a "steadier."

Then the last two years of college would include abolishment of all the above-mentioned items. There would be only two compulsory classes a semester—one at the beginning of the semester when the teacher would give the students mimeographed instruction sheets for the course with additional oral instructions, including a complete syllablus for the course; and another class period at the end of the semester where students would meet for their final examination.

The teacher would judge from the exam whether or not the student had enough grasp of the subject matter to entitle him to get credit in the course—thus he would either pass or fail. Borderline cases would be called in for conferences, where the teacher would point out their weaknesses.

If the student failed it would simply mean that he would be required to study some more and take another exam later. In brief, the student would take the course only until he was able to pass the examination.

An objection to this plan would be a lack of worthwhile discussion benefit one gets in classes. This would be taken care of—by those who felt the need for them—by informal discussion periods, regularly assigned, at which attendance by those enrolled in the course would be voluntary.

And the teachers? To some it might appear that this system would be cheating the teachers out of some work. But the truth is, it would really be more work for them, since the success of the plan would basically rest upon the clarity of their syllabi; and thus they would be forced to be revising and improve them constantly. This coupled with their discussion groups and the giving of examinations would be__ more than sufficient work for them—providing they did it efficiently and conscientiously.

This is no new idea. In fact it is identical with, or at least similar to, systems that have been worked out with success in other colleges throughout the United States. It would seem a more businesslike way of going about this idea of education. —IM

Tech Students Prefer Discussion Sessions To Any Other Type Of Class Procedure

New classes are under way with about as many methods of conducting a class in use as there are professors on the campus. Yet there are some general types of teaching practices used widely, and these more familiar types were under fire in this week's poll.

First choice of those casting ballots was the discussion class, with 45% of the men and 40% of the women preferring to do the talking in classes.

Lecture sessions were popular too, with 27% of those voting naming this type as their preference. A combination of the two most popular types—discussion and lecture—was favored by 25%. On the ballots students were asked to name the combination of types most often preferred, and the combination "Lecture leading to discussion" was written in on 25% of the ballots.

Distinctly not popular was the outside reading and class quiz program, for on no ballot was this choice named.

Straight question and answer was not found popular in the balloting, either.

Women were less prone to choose discussion classes, according to the ballots, but the lecture and combination discussion and lecture sessions received higher ratings from the women than they did from the men—all of which may disprove something about the fairer sex wanting to do all the talking.

Method preferred in conduct of classes:

	Men	Women	Total
Discussion	45%	40%	43%
Lecture	25%	30%	27%
Oral Quiz	10%		5%
Combination of lectures and discussion	20%	30%	25%

It will be recalled in rating examination procedures some weeks ago the women did not approve of oral exams, while the men preferred them in many cases. In today's poll, once again, it was the men who balloted for oral quizzes for class work.

In considering the methods approved by students, one faculty member suggested that the danger in the popular discussion session was that very often students might want to discuss things which were not vital, and that the aims of the class might not be met. A weakness of student discussions, he brought out, was that often students talked without having something to say. A student countered with, "And that goes for the danger in lectures, too; only it's the professor who has to check to see that he's giving and not just talking."

'Hilltopics' To Be Official Alum Paper

The newest addition to Bradley publications makes its first appearance today when "Hilltopics," the official magazine of the Bradley Alumni association, goes on sale.

The magazine will contain 24 pages, devoted to stories and illustrations of all campus activities since school began last fall, as well as to news of distinguished alumni.

The publication is made possible by alumni donations and by an appropriation made by the Board of Trustees. Over 5,000 copies will be mailed out quarterly, some of them going so far as Iraq and Persia.

The publication is edited by David B. Owen, editor, Miss Clara Walsh, assistant editor, and Miss Pauline Gauss, contributing editor.

Two more issues, one in April and one in June, are planned. Although intended primarily for alumni, copies will be available to students who are interested, at a price of 25 cents.

Surplus Of Jobs Reported By Employment Office

A surplus of jobs is the news from the Student Employment office. Some are for meals, and others for board and room for both men and women. Oren Lane states that he has received a number of calls for women to care for children. Students needing this type of employment should report to the Student Employment office at once.

The students who applied for NYA should see Mr. Asa Carter before February 10 to get their assignments settled.

YWCA Sponsors Organ Meditations

Next Tuesday afternoon from 3 to 4 o'clock all students are invited to stop in the chapel for informal organ meditation sponsored by Y. W. C. A.

During this hour there will be quiet music from the chapel organ augmented by brief poetic recitations by Verne Bennett, of the Y. W. C. A. cabinet. Students and faculty may avail themselves of this restful hour for as long as they desire, coming and leaving as they wish.

This monthly project by the Y. W. C. A. is an experiment which the cabinet and members are hoping to offer to each Bradleyite as a valuable break in the school's daily affairs. The "Y" is following the lead of large universities in which such meditations have proved greatly successful.

Create New Engineering Courses

'Wrong Way' Berte Plans Trip On Horseback Through Colorado

By Clint Eckstrom

Photograph, radio, skating, skiing, hunting, guns, tennis, records and flying—all of these are Bob Berte's hobbies.

Bob, a senior, received his pilot's license last year. At that time he was nick-named "Wrong-Way Corrigan" for getting lost on his solo cross-country flight and ending up near the Indiana border. Some day he would like to own his own plane and a home in the country with enough land to land it on. If he ever gets time he'd like to experiment with aviation.

He enjoys revolver shooting and hunts ducks, quail, and rabbits. He has gone up to northern Minnesota fishing and hunting several times. Many times he hunts with a camera instead of a gun. With other fellows, he used to shoot at Carnation (no plug) milk cans to see who bought the "ice cream bars."

"Photo-Flash" Berte took pictures for the Peoria Central yearbook and newspaper for two years. He's been taking pictures for "Robbie" and Dave Owen since he entered Bradley. He takes all the athletic publicity pictures. These pictures are sent to publicity directors throughout the country for use in newspapers. Bob has complete equipment and develops and enlarges his own prints. He hopes to get into illustrative photography and use color photography in advertising.

Bob claims he is a "hog-wild" skater and does all kinds of skating, figure and speed, and hockey.

He likes electricity, physics and chemistry and wouldn't mind being a research chemist some day. He likes to construct radio equipment just for his own satisfaction.

He enjoys all kinds of records from Glenn Miller to light opera. He doesn't go for the "heavy stuff."

Bob hopes to take a pack trip on horseback in Colorado next summer.

Ten thousand day and evening students attend classes in Hunter college's new skyscraper in New York.

Faculty Round Table To Be Heard Over Hilltop Hour

A faculty round table will be the feature of the next Hilltop Hour, which will be presented over station WMBD at 8:30 this Sunday evening. The topic will be "Chemistry and the Modern World," with Dr. John H. Shroyer, Miss M. Gertrude Harvey, and Dr. Howard Maple Teeter, all of the chemistry department, participating.

Alma Gluck Aimbalist, former opera star, bequeathed $10,000 to Barnard college, for establishment of a political economics scholarship.

Salesmanship Class Has Yearly Sales Convention

Meeting for the last time, the 32 members of Dr. Avery's salesmanship class met a week ago last Thursday at the Y. W. C. A. for the annual class Sales Convention. For the last 15 years it has been the custom of the Salesmanship class to hold this convention in place of the last class period so that the principles studied in the class can be put into practice.

After the dinner, speeches were given by Kenneth Williamson, general agent for the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance company, Dean Loyal G. Tillotson, guest of honor, and by Dr. Harold G. Avery, class instructor. Roger Sutton acted as toastmaster.

First to be introduced was Dean Tillotson who spoke briefly on the importance of selling ourselves. Following him Dr. Avery gave a brief history of the class conventions and stressed the value of salesmanship instruction. He stated his belief that at the present time it is the better students who are taking up salesmanship.

GET OUT AND VOTE ON FEB. 11

Primary Election Tuesday; Vote!! - - It Is Your Duty

All Bradley students over 21 years should exercise their privilege to vote by participating in the city primary election which will be held Tuesday, February 11.

Many college students as well as older people feel that the voting day is a time when they can "let George doit." This is particularly true of primary elections, when the number of ballots cast is much less than those cast in the final elections.

Next Tuesday every Bradley student elgible to cast a ballot should step into the voting booth and mark his X in front of the names of his favorite candidates.

Here is the way to show you are a true, red-blooded American by evercising your voting perogative.

Quotable Quotes

"National defense and education are close kin, for both of them are plans to preserve the way of life to which we Americans have dedicated ourselves and our children. That way of life, which we call democracy, is held together with the idea that every man is to have a chance."—Dr. John G. Bowman, chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh.

Ain't it fun starting out with a new slate, having the juke box in the Wig broken, seeing all the pledges pleased smiles over having made their grades, thinking about the approach of spring, speculating as to who will be the new Varsity Sweetheart, listening to Mr. Carp on Sunday night, sitting in Mr. Wharry's office and hearing several of his choice stories, wading across the muddy north campus, wearing spring clothes at last, watching Brennan demoralize the Tech staff, eating popcorn and drinking cokes after chapel, planning a South American jaunt, sinking your teeth into a hunk of Mom's super chocolate cake, watching the giggling twosomes in the Lib., strolling along the sunny walks about the campus, thinking about Valentine's day, and that's a hint if I ever saw one!

This definitely ain't fun—reading Algernon, which is very ungood, seeing Kitty Foyle, getting first semester grades, having thirty minute lunch hours, getting my stockings and legs all splashed from this sloppy weather, paying taxes on fraternity and sorority dues, getting up on grey, rainy days, having to drink a fountain coke, cuz the bottle cokes are finished, having the Tech office all re-arranged, and opened to the fresh air, having to write a column, so I think I quit.

Associated Students of the University of Idaho last year spent $107,031 and finished the year $1,080 in the black.

Tech Students Hold Parties, Luncheons During Past Week

Phyllis Beatty was in the role of hostess last Friday evening entertaining at her Glenwood Avenue home. It was a dinner party for two couples before they attended the Blue Book Bounce in the gym, and Phyllis had invited Phyllis Bowman, Paul Fruehauf, and Swen Wallin to be her guests on Friday evening.

The same group were present the following evening when Miriam Scharp entertained in honor of Larry Frazee, an Illini student from Green Valley. The couples were Miriam's dinner guests and spent the evening at her home playing cards and discussing the exam week just past.

Pre-Game Hostess

Janis Fox will be a collegiate hostess this evening when she entertains 10 of her friends for dinner at her home on Knoxville avenue. The hostess has invited her guests for six o'clock and they will be seated around a table decorated with the Valentine colors of red and white, with this same color scheme predominating throughout the rooms of the house. The group will adjourn to the Armory following dinner for the North Dakota game and Janis has invited Lois Riegel, Shirlee Moran, Betty Boyd, Millie Dunseth, Doris Nyberg, Mary Ellen Chase, Margaret Brown, Jean Brennan and Anna Mary Chiotte.

Breakfast Party

Because Mary Carey Schenke left with her family last Friday morning to make her home in St. Louis, a number of affairs were planned for her by her friends. It was in the Vogue room of the Pere Marquette hotel that she was guest of honor when ten of her best chums arranged a ten o'clock breakfast for her, and following breakfast the time was pleasantly spent in chatting and making the most of the last few minutes together with Mary. The girls planning this impromptu party for the guest of honor included Hope Anderson, Bobbie Johnson, Opal Backes, Barbara Blair, Bettie Lou Stapleton, Norma Flannery, Gerry Seltzer, Shirley Smith and Agnes Grieg.

Bridge Hostess

A Saturday afternoon bridge hostess was Bettie Lou Stableton when she invited eleven of her friends to spend the afternoon with her. The Valentine motif prevailed throughout the house and following the bridge games Bettie Lou served refreshments to her guests who were seated at individual tables decorated in red an white. Betty Kimmig, Jean and Marilyn Jacob, Margaret, Whisinand, Libby Hack, Virginia Ford, Lois Robertson, Marian Stein, Ann Schmoeger, Gerry Seltzer and Eileen Callahan were Bettie Lou's guests.

Luncheon Party

Another luncheon honoring several returned DePauw students was held on Friday of last week when Marion Horstman and Lillian Cavette were renewing acquaintances with a number of Bradley co-eds. The girls had lunch together at the hotel and then attended the afternoon performance of Ray Noble and his orchestra at the Palace. Marilyn Jacob, Libby Hack, Pat Haskins, Marion Horstman and Lillian Cavette were the Friday afternoon celebrants.

Guest Of Honor

Mary Lou Heisel was another Illini student home for a restful week-end after a somewhat tedious week of finals, and when she arrived in Peoria on Monday of last week she brought her pretty blonde roommate, Ruth Hicks, with her, and was introducing this Tulsa, Oklahoma guest to her many friends here. Saturday noon she invited several of her chums to have lunch with her in the Peoria Room, and after the girls had met the guest of honor and had lunched together they spent the remainder of the afternoon shopping in the downtown stores. Vivian Kelley, Shirlee Moran, Betty Boyd, Lois Riegel, Ruth Hicks and Mary Lou Heisel were the girls spending the afternoon together.

The University of Illinois school of journalism has added a course in radio broadcasting.

Alpha Pi Sweetheart Dinner To Be February 21

Annual Alpha Pi Sweetheart dinner will be held Friday, February 21, one week later than previously announced. The affair will be held at the fraternity house.

Dick Davison and Ray Heiden are co-chairmen of the dinner. Fifty couples have made arrangements to attend this affair which is annually one of the biggest events on the Alpha Pi social calendar.

Next week Alpha Pi will participate with the other campus organizations in the annual "hell week" activities, during which freshmen pledges of the fraternity will be informally initiated. The informal initiation will begin Wednesday evening and continue through the week culminating in the formal initiation Sunday afternoon. Sixteen pledges will be initiated.

Beta Mus Plan Rushing

Beta Sigma Mu fraternity is planning its rushing for the second semester the week of February 10-14.

Dean Brawn, rush captain, has planned the program which will include a smoker on the tenth with Lee Handley, Bradley alumnus now with the Pittsburgh Pirates, speaking; a theater party the 14th; and a cabin stag the 16th.

Monday night the Peoria Christian Youth Council is sponsoring a roller skating party at the Fairyland rink at 7:30 o'clock. Tickets are 35 cents per person.

Co-Eds Entertain For Bride-To-Be

Lois Brock was the guest of honor last Saturday evening when Dorothy Janssen entertained for this bride-to-be. 'Twas a crystal shower which was held by the "Petes" for their chum, and after bridge games refreshments were served by the hostess to Jane Case, Jean Winklemeyer, Maxine Merrill, Jean Jacob, Ruth Short, Jean Clatfelter, Ida Miller, Cherie Lidle, Vicki Michel, Kay Keyes, Frannie Day and the guest of honor.

Ruthie Short was the hostess entertaining for Miss Brock last evening and invited 25 of her friends to her home on Columbia Terrace, while Jane Case and Mary Birkett are planning a Saturday evening party for this much feted bride-to-be.

Braves Conquer Temple Owls, 48-45

Stock in the Bradley Braves hit a new high as the battling Tech cagers nosed out a great Temple university team, 48-45 in a bitterly contested game at the Armory Tuesday night. The winner was not decided until the closing seconds of the game when, with the Braves fighting grimly to hold a one-point margin, Sophomore Ray Ramsey, playing his first varsity game, eased through the Owl defense to score on a sleeper and give the Braves the victory.

The crowd, one of the largest of the season, saw the Braves return to top form, completely atoning for the crushing defeat suffered at the hands of Toledo university in their last game.

The loss was Temple's fourth of the present campaign, having previously dropped three decisions by two points or less.

The Braves held leads of 5, 6 and 9 points at various intervals in the second half, but each time, the Owls staged sharp rallies, and with but one minute and 20 seconds remaining in the game, the Braves led, 46-45.

Tech Makes Free Throws

The game was played at top speed from the opening whistle until the timer's gun sounded at the end of the fray. Both teams used fast-breaking offense at every opportunity, but alert defensive work by Bradley guards forced the Owls to shoot from far out on the court. However, the Owls hit a good percentage of their shots, scoring 19 times from the field as compared to 16 successful attempts by the Braves but Bradley was superior at the foul line, connecting for 16 points in 22 tries while Temple made 7 in 10 attempts.

The game got off to a flying start as the Owls scored twice in rapid order. The Braves came right back to even matters as Ramsey scored his first points as a Bradley regular on a rebound and Paul McCall tossed in a set shot. From there on out, it was a see-saw battle with the two teams trading baskets throughout the half, the Braves taking a 25-22 lead on shots by Chinuge, Bor-

Tech Boxers In Golden Gloves Bouts

Three Bradley boxers are still in the thick of the race for the championship in their respective divisions in the annual Golden Gloves boxing tournament.

The three scrappers are Ralph Olson, Roy Nelson and Bob Brodbeck. Olson has captured the hearts of the fight fans thus far in the tourney with his gameness and ability to either box or stand toe to toe and slug it out with his opponent. He has won two bouts thus far in the tournament, winning one on a decision and the other by a knockout in the third round.

Brodbeck, the smallest member of the trio, was named Illinois high school champion last year while competing for the Peoria Manual mitt team. He has one victory to his credit in the tourney, while Nelson, Bradley's heavyweight entry drew a bye in the first round pairings.

Nelson and Brodbeck are freshmen while Olson is a sophomore. All three boys go into action tomorrow night at the Majestic theater.

Scholarships totaling $128,000 have been awarded 247 students at Vassar college for the current year.

Tech's Sixth Man

Sioux Here Tonight To Play Tech

The Braves of Bradley Tech face their second intersectional opponent of the week tonight when they meet the strong University of North Dakota quintet at the Armory. Tonight marks the initial appearance of the Sioux cagers in Peoria although their football squad appeared here last fall and suffered a crushing defeat at the hands of the Braves.

Every member of the Sioux starting five stands 6' 2" or taller. The team has been srengthened by the return of Fred Gran, star center, who was declared ineligible for competition during the first semester. Gran adds plenty of scoring punch to the Sioux lineup.

Other stars of the team are Phil McMillan, who recently returned to the squad after a year of inactivity, and Bruce Stevenson, last year's high scorer in the conference.

The Sioux have a good season to date, their record showing wins over Montana in an intersectional game, 39-26. In a conference game last week, they dropped South Dakota State by a 57-45 score.

The Bradley lineup will be the same that started the Temple game, with Hansen at center, McCall and Chinuge at guard, and Bortel and Ray Ramsey, sensational sophomore, at the forward positions. Others likely to see service for the Braves are Jim O'Brien, Lee Redard, and Stan Butkovich, another man up from Dutch Mienen's freshman team.

Thursday will be high school night at the Armory with the Braves playing host to the basketball squads of from 35 to 40 high schools throughout the state. All high school students will be admitted to the game for twenty-five cents.

ODDS AND ENDS—Bradley's wrestling and swimming teams are in action this week, the tankers meeting Murray State Teachers down in Kentucky while the wrestlers grapple with the formidable Normal crew here in the Hilltop gym Saturday afternoon . . . Few Techsters know that Coach William Moyle was an A. A. U. diving champion while at the University of Iowa and that the good-looking mentor also won several boxing titles . . . Bradley boxers in the Journal-Transcript Golden Gloves fiasco proved to be some of the most entertaining fighters in the tournament . . .

On the Warpath
by Art Szold

Bradley's lettermen will choose a queen tomorrow night when the annual "B" club dance. The affair should be one of the brightest of the season and will feature the crowning of the queen with all the "ceremonies" by Bradley's all-conference tackle, Harry Schindler.

From Ann Arbor, Michigan, comes word by Joe Hession, former Techster, that the Wolverine basketball five is improving in no mean manner. Hession goes on to praise the work of Russ Wendland, former teammate of Larry Leonard.

While the center of attention is focused on Bradley's varsity five, the fact remains that Coach John I. Meinen's frosh five is to date undefeated and appears to have everything well in hand toward the realization of a clean record for the season. This is perhaps the finest frosh crew since the days when the "famous five"were on the floor as yearlings.

Here Next Fall

Word comes from Galesburg that Paul Butkovich, brother of Bradley's Stan, plans enrolling on the Hilltop campus next fall. Paul played with the Galesburg products Tuesday night against Tech's frosh aggregation.

Ray Ramsey, the newcomer to the Tech varsity five, certainly played great ball against Temple. Fans on the sidelines were astonished at his ability to fake and then execute his shots. The lad was a great ball player in Springfield where he preformed in both basketball and football.

Temple university had a collection of all-around athletes here Tuesday night. For instance, Angelo Musi is a great second baser with the Owl nine and Gorham Getchell stars with the track team as a pole vaulter. Maxwell Wharton is also a track star.

All Youngsters

The Owls will have a great basketball team for several in that most of the boys are sophomores and not a single player here Tuesday was a senior.

On hand to watch the Braves Gresham Stone of Springfield and Johnny Hendricks, Tech's great pitcher of a few seasons back.

The fans are looking forward to Ralph Olson's next fight . . . The lad won the last bout by a kayo.

Butkovitch And Ramsey Join Varsity Squad

Bradley fans at the Temple university - Bradley game last Tuesday night saw two new faces in Bradley uniforms when Ray Ramsey and Stan Butkovich made their initial appearance as members of the varsity cage squad.

Ramsey, who played sensational ball for Dutch Mienen's freshman team last semester and the first semester of this year, won a regular berth, taking over at Kenny Olson's vacated guard position, and played a brilliant floor game in addition to scoring seven of his team's points. He tipped in a rebound in the opening minutes of play for the first Bradley points of the game, added a basket and a free throw later in the half, and then, with 20 seconds remaining in the game, scored on a short shot from under the basket to assure the Braves of a victory. Ray prepped at Lanphier high school in Springfield, where he was hailed as one of the greatest hoopsters ever produced by that school.

Butkovich, the other newcomer, is a transfer student from Knox college, and just attained his eligibility at the turn of the semester. Stan is a first semester sophomore. He is expected to see plenty of service in the Brave's remaining games, as he is a hard, scrappy player with plenty of ability, both offensively and defensively. He has proven his worth in the practice sessions since he has joined the varsity, and should provide the fans with many a thrilling minute of basketball in the years to come.

Anyone interested in writing sports for the TECH is urged to contact the sports editor at the TECH office in the North Manual Arts build- the North Manual Arts building Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

tel and Ramsey as the period ended.

Owls Rally

The second half saw the Braves control the play for the first seven minutes. Temple committed several fouls in attempting to gain possession of the ball and the Braves jumped to a 9-point lead. The Owls lost no time in getting a rally under way. Musi, Owl captain, scored twice on short shots and Wharton drove under to score. Then keen-eyed Howard Kahn banged in two long shots and the Owls were very much in the ball game, the score reading 33-32 in Bradley's favor.

Here Bradley temporarily lost their lead on a long basket by Snyder, but quickly regained it as Hansen and McCall scored. Snyder again scored, this time on a free throw, but Chinuge and Bortel scored from the field and Bradley led 41-35. Then Temple went to work. Snyder arched in a beautiful long, Bechtloff made good from the side and Morganstine followed suit, adding a free throw for good measure. Musi added a free toss and then Kahn, brilliant long shot artist, flipped in another long to bring the score to 46-45 with less than two minutes remaining.

The Braves then resorted to their "come and get it" tactics and suddenly Ramsey was open under the hoop, from where he scored after taking a pass from Hansen.

Bortel, Ramsey Shine

Bootchie Bortel led the Tech scoring machine with 14 points, 8 of these coming on free throws. Chris Hansen contributed 10 to the cause and McCall, "Snookie" Chinuge and Ramsey added 9, 8 and 7, respectively.

Playing their first game in three years without the services of Ken Olson, the Braves functioned perfectly, Sophomore Ray Ramsey showing that his ability will enable him to fill Kenny's shoes, a job that will not be easy for anyone. Ray started and ended the scoring, batting in a rebound in the opening minutes of play, and scoring on a sleeper to clinch the victory with 20 seconds remaining in the second half.

Independents, Sig Phis Split; Alphas Threaten

In the feature match of the day, Sigma Phi's league leading bowlers maintained a slim lead over their nearest competitors, the Alpha Pi squad. The Sigs split their two games with the strong Independent crew, losing the opener on the strength of Ralph Bennet's game of 202, but came back in the finale to retain their lead.

While the Independents were wreaking vengeance upon the Sigs for an early season drubbing, Alpha Pi was busily engaged in rolling up a high game of the season, ending with a total of 919 pins. Chief marksman for the Alphas in their two-game victory over the Beta Mus was Hirsch with a 218 total in the first game.

In the only other match of the day, the Bradley Hall professors toppled the professors from the Industrial Arts building in an intersectional contest. The first game ended in a tie, each team having a total of 682 pins. An extra frame was rolled to determine the winner and the Bradley hall keglers proved themselves superior, and continued to press their advantage in the second game. The losers were sparked by Mr. Hewitt's high game of 193.

Premier Of Norway To Talk Monday Night At Majestic Theater

An eye-witness story of the invasion of Norway with the object lesson it holds for every free democratic nation will be told Peorians by the Hon. Carl J. Hambro, premier of Norway, when he speaks in the Majestic theater next Monday night, February 10, at 8:00 p. m. under auspices of the Peoria Citizens Forum. "I Saw It Happen in Norway" will be the subject of his talk which is open to the public with no charge.

Mr. Hambro, president of the Norwegian parliament for the past 15 years, who, next to King Haakon, held the most important political position in the country, will speak from first-hand observation. He saw the first blow fall. He faced the bombs with his government at Hamar and then at Elverum while the Germans were occupying Oslo. He then was sent to Sweden, where he tried to rally the scattered Norwegian forces and where he helped to keep the gold reserve and merchant marine of Norway from German hands.

Story Of Norway

The inside story of the successive moves of the Norwegian government; the conversations between Mr. Hambro and the king, the crown prince and princess; the truth about Major Quisling, Norwegian traitor; the gallant stand made by the Norwegian army, navy, and air force in the face of vastly superior forces; and the latest news from Nazi-invaded Norway are all expected to be part of Mr. Hambro's address here next Monday night.

Carl J. Hambro, in addition to being president of the Norwegian parliament, was president of the League of Nations assembly in 1939 and is now chairman of the supervisory committee. He is considered a world leader of democratic ideas and is in the United States to sound a warning to the democracies and to carry to the fight for Norwegian independence. He has made numerous radio and platform talks since his arrival here last summer and recently his book "I Saw It Happen in Norway" was published.

Norway Is Lesson

The tragedy which befell Norway is, in Mr. Hambro's words, "a rare object lesson that ought to be studied in every country that is still neutral and independent, for every country is in danger, and every unsuspicious nation is living under mortal menace." An open forum session will follow his main address here Monday night.

Dear Ed:

I am one of the many Bradley students who are going to have to decide whether I am going to the basketball game or the St. Louis Symphony. Two years ago I made the same decision and missed the best game of the season, Bradley vs. Duquesne. What am I going to do?

The dates for both occasions have been made far in advance, far enough to eliminate conflictions.

Why not, in the future, have some arrangement so that these of Bradley and Bradley fans may enjoy both the game and the concert?

Long I pondered and weary,
Till my eyes were red and bleary.
Cramming, cramming, cramming, cramming,
Ramming, ramming, ramming, ramming,
All the knowledge I could find
Into such a little mind.
Sennacherib and Essarhaddon—
Names like that are enough to madden.
Caesar, Brutus, et tu, me too,
Kill them all is what I'd do.
Charlemagne was a Carolingian—
A rhyme for that I can't imingian.
Then William made some Hastings pudding
Pudding, pudding, pudding, pudding.

And all the boys just slept in boycotts.
Hitler, Himmler, Goring, Hess,
I must confess it's quite a mess.
Then comes science, bugs, and bags;
About anatomy there'll be no gags.
In literature my mark always lags,
I study and study The Thief of Bad Bags.
Long I wandered sick and sacked,
For what I needed I sadly lacked.
